Too many young photographers flirt with fashion while experimenting with their art but very few end up with images that have this certain aesthetic to make them really outstanding, contemporary and worth the attention of the fashion industry. A brand example of an artist whose work comprises pure artistic and fashion elements is of Olivia Bee who despite her young age has already collaborated with Hermes and Converse while many fashion magazines have featured her editorials.

It was high time for the American artist to present her first solo show in Europe and Bernal Espacio Gallery in Madrid will be hosting hit. A selection of 20 photographs with the most intimate version of Olivia Bee is entitled "Envelope In A Dream" and aims to show the sweetness and romanticism of Bee's work which trespasses the trivial appearance of some situations, distinguishing herself from the obsession of her generation. With the constant documentation of "the supposed to be the best moments", Bee tries to capture the pure feelings behind them, using her own experience and own body to express them.

Obsessed with honesty, the American photographer presents a series of oneiric images; deserted places she faces helped by her camera.
